Nature, mother earth,
the wild, call it what you like, but it's always described
in opposition to ~~us~~ us.
As though we're seperate. Funny...

Folks love to
philosophize and
make their opinions
known as much
as everyone else,
but language
defines us and our ideas. Always.

It may be told of
me to suggest... but
look around you.
They say we have
a crisis of being
disconnected
from nature.
The way we see it ~~was~~ <sup>was</sup>.

So, maybe it's that simple. If we saw ourselves as
of and from nature.
Maybe that's how
we find our way
home?
